Survivors include her two precious children that she thought the world of, Gracie Ariana Kelly, and Raymond E. Wilson, her mother and father Donnie L. and Norma J. McCollum of Pickens, SC. Also surviving are sisters Kimberly Phillips of Pickens, and Laura McCollum (Casey) of Taylors. Her paternal grandmother, Mary McCollum of Simpsonville, her aunt Diane Bigbee (Clyde) of Simpsonville, her uncle Bobby Sutherland of Pickens, and a special niece that she adored, Teagan Phillips of Pickens. Sarah also had a few special friends that she loved dearly, Donna Odom, Tiffany Pilgrim, Amanda Whitfield, and Jessica Black.

A celebration of life will be announced at a later date. In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to the American Cancer society, American Childhood Cancer Organization, or St. Judes.

“ I miss you so much. I hate that you had to leave so soon. You replaced RJ as my best friend and I haven't accepted your death yet. I've been putting off because it only makes it that much more real.

“ Sarah was one of the most precious & beautiful people I've ever had the honor of calling my friend. She was a warrior & so sweet & kind! This world is darker without her & Heaven is so lucky to have her❤️

“ I met Sarah while she was living in Savannah through the Savannah Moms Group. She was one of the few people who I trusted to watch my daughter. Sarah was such a sweet person and will be greatly missed.

“ I had the distinct pleasure of meeting this sweet young lady at her friend Donna’s wedding. I was the photographer. She had a smile on her face the entire event and danced the night away. Sending love and healing light to all who loved her.
